

N is for New Varieties

While the festive season is a time when we indulge in long-standing traditions, it doesn't mean we have to be totally beholden to the tried, tested and true. Resolve to bring a bit of the brave new world of emerging varieties to your drinking. Coriole is doing wonderful things with the great white from Campania, fiano (A$25), while Heartland's Dolcetto Lagrein (A$20) may be the perfect barbecue red.

But it's the Chalmers family from Euston who have done more than anyone to broaden our drinking horizons. All their offerings – vermintino, fiano, aglianico, lagrein and sagrantino – make for compelling drinking.
